ITALY REJECTS PEACE OFFER

ETHIOPIAN WAR

SUPREME CONTEMPT
FOR SANCTIONS

BRITAIN EXPECTED TO SQUARE UP TO ISSUE

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received Nov. 2, 10.15 a.m.)

Geneva, Oct. 1.

It is reported that Italy has rejected the latest France-British peace overtures.

Diplomats interviewed by the United Press said that Baron Aloisi, the Italian spokesman, in interviews with Sir Samuel Hoare, the British Foreign Minister, and M. Pierre Laval, the French Prime Minister, had made it clear that the war Italy is waging in Ethiopia would continue.

Faced with the failure of his peace efforts, M. Laval is rumoured to be renewing his efforts to revive the unsuccessful 1933 plan, involving "a directorate" for Ethiopia, composed of Britain, France, Germany and Italy, which would regulate Ethiopian affairs.

Baron Aloisi told Italian newspaper correspondents that if the only proposals to be made to Italy were those which M. Laval had already communicated during the afternoon, then a settlement was hopeless at present.

Another meeting between Sir Samuel Hoare and Baron Aloisi was scheduled for Thursday next. This has been cancelled, strengthening the belief that conciliation is impossible.

Meanwhile, it is learned that Germany is likely to follow the example of the United States and impose an arms embargo against both belligerents.—United Press.

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received November 2, 10.15 a.m.)

Geneva, Nov. 1.

The Committee of Eighteen was at a serious deadlock to-day in respect of the method of applying sanctions against Italy, which at the moment appears to imperil League of Nations members' frozen credits in Italy.

Rumania, Yugo-Slavia and Chile pointed out that Italy was paying her debts to them in goods and that they would lose their credit balances if they refused to accept her products.

A sub-Committee will be appointed to seek a solution of this latest stumbling block to the effective application of anti-Italian sanctions.—United Press.

ITALY UNMOVED

Asmara, Nov. 1. The threat of sanctions against Italy has not shaken the determination of the Army commanders.

General de Bono, leader of the Italian northern army in Ethiopia, interviewed to-day, said:

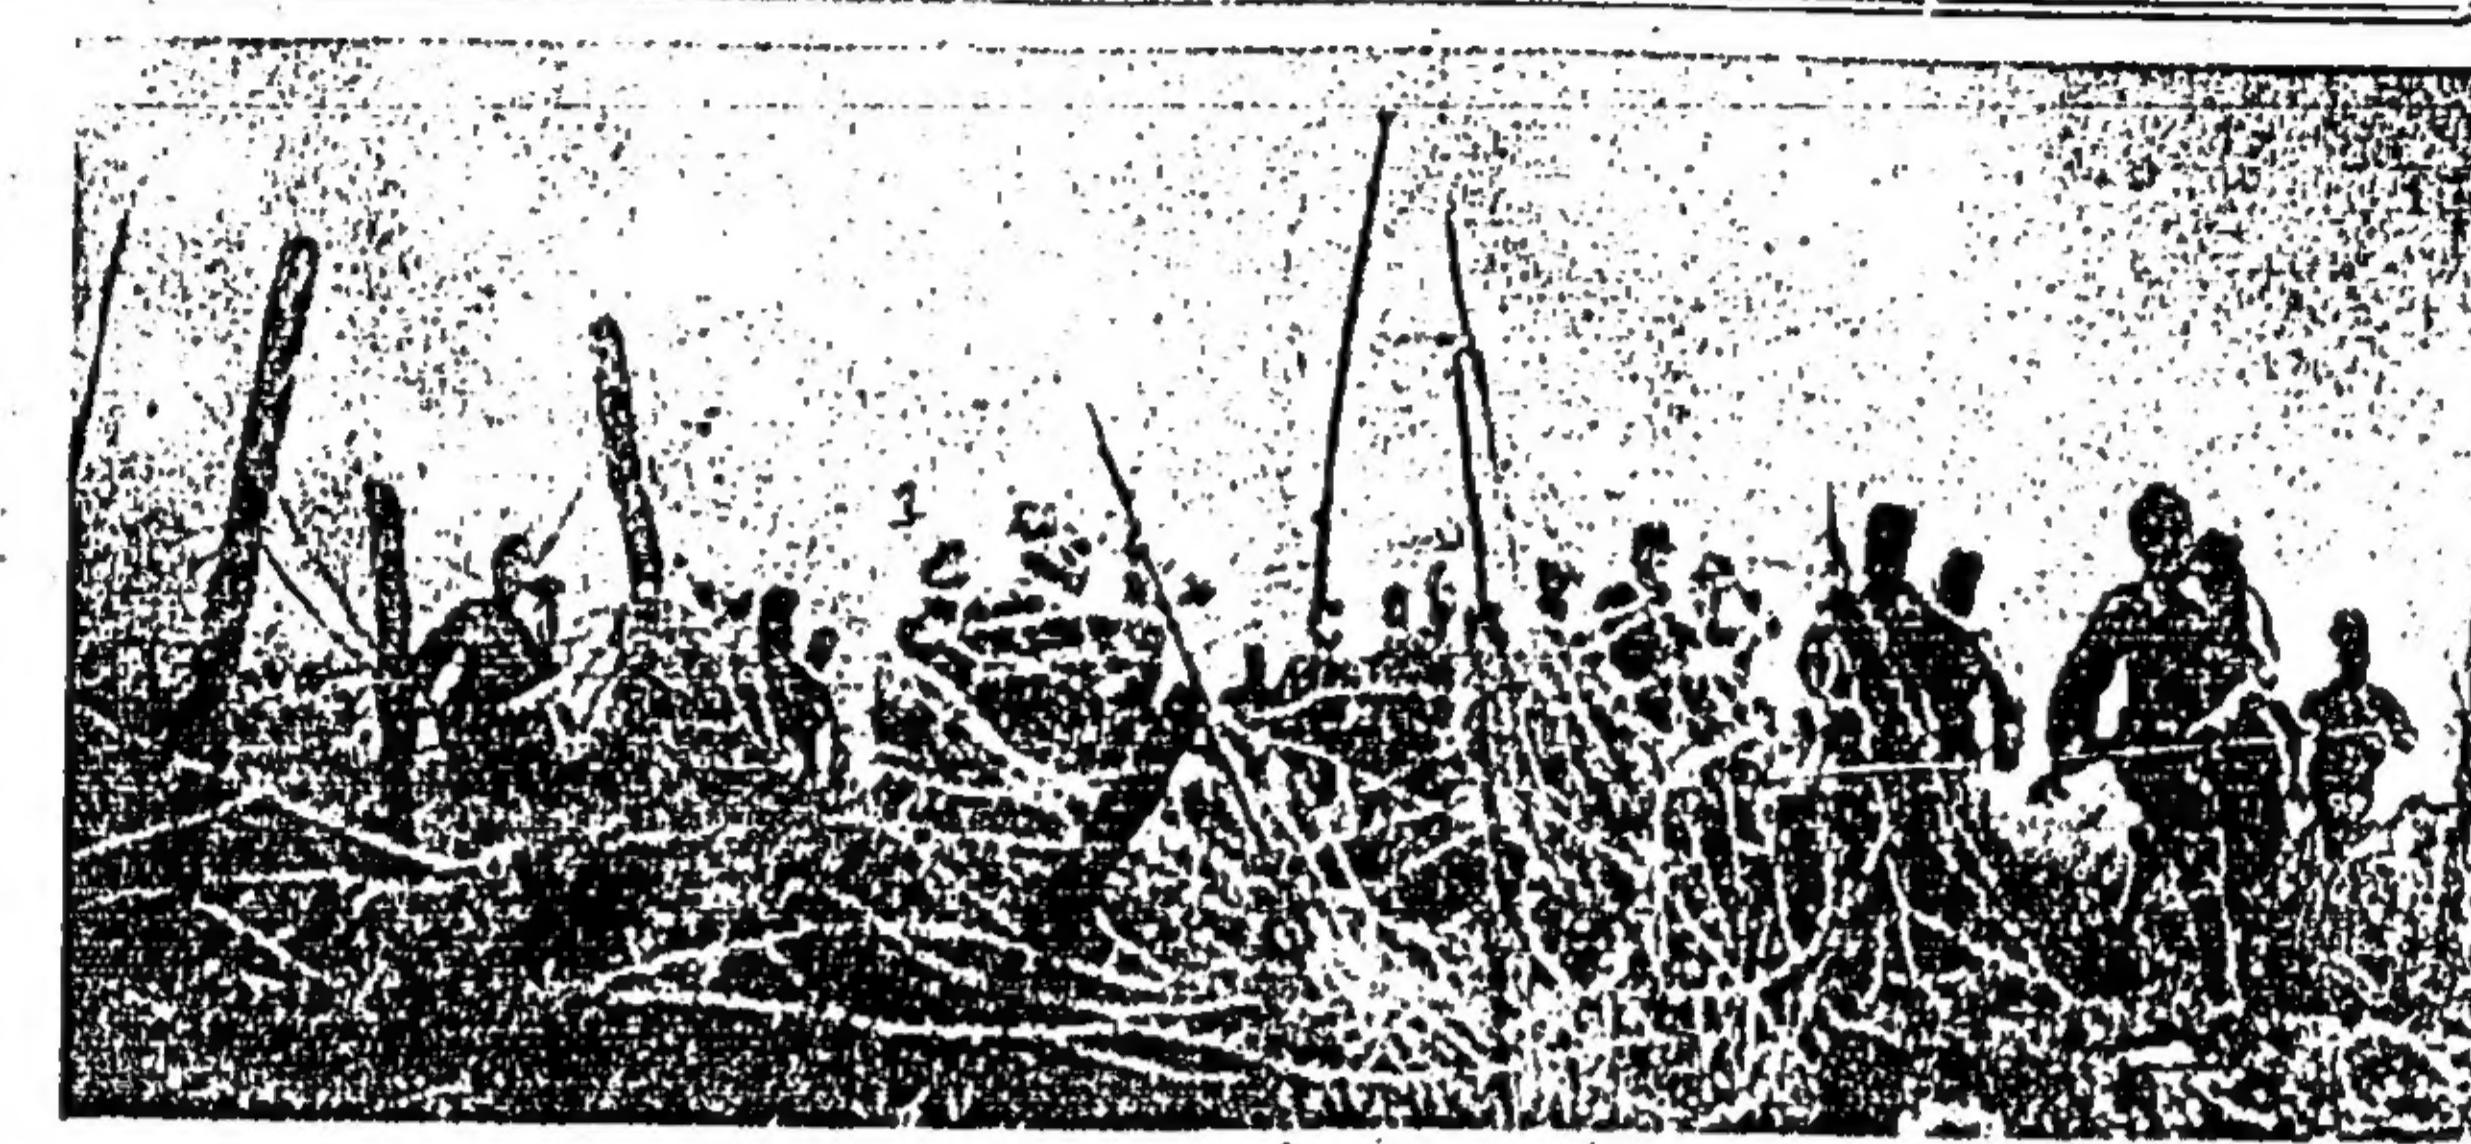

"We are going ahead, taking civilisation to uncivilised regions as other nations did, imitating our Roman ancestors."—United Press.

FRUITLESS EFFORTS

London, Nov. 1.

The Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, and the French Premier, M. Laval, had conversations in Geneva to-day. It is understood in League circles that the fullest agreement was reached on collaboration of the two Governments, both in application of measures in fulfilment of their obligations under Article 16 and in search for a solution of the Ital-Ethiopian conflict by way of an agreed settlement between parties, in conformity with the principles of the League.

It is anticipated that a statement will be made to-morrow regarding the efforts with which both Governments have already been (Continued from Page 14).

The picture, rushed by plane from Ethiopia for the "Daily Mail," shows Italian troops penetrating a barbed-wire entanglement during their advance towards Adowa. It gives some idea of the stout defence offered by the Ethiopians before they were forced to surrender the town.

LLOYD GEORGE'S
TIRADE

GOVERNMENT'S FAILURE

London, Nov. 1.

"The sanctions proposed by the League of Nations are a mockery of the Covenant," declared Mr. David Lloyd George, former Prime Minister, and leader of a virulent campaign against the National Government, when delivering an election address to-night which was broadcast to the nation.

"Our Ministers," he said, "have gone to the Geneva conferences with a divided purpose and they have been hopelessly outmatched by resolute and astute men with whom they were confronted."

"Signor Mussolini and M. Pierre Laval have completely foisted them all round," he asserted.

Mr. Lloyd George affirmed that the Government had failed conspicuously to guard the three foundations upon which the peace of Europe depended: namely, the guaranteeing of international rights, fair dealing to end trade and currency warfare, and the securing of a general reduction of armaments.

The Government, he averred, had delayed again and again until it was too late; and when they looked about to act they hesitated and faltered and weakened.—Reuter.

A sub-Committee will be appointed to seek a solution of this latest stumbling block to the effective application of anti-Italian sanctions.—United Press.

MAKING LIAISON WITH CHINA

London, Nov. 1.

The Bank of England has issued a statement arising out of the visit of Sir Frederick Leith-Ross to China, to the effect that the Governor of the Bank has established a committee, the purpose of which is to provide an organisation which will be available in case of need to negotiate on behalf of bondholders in Chinese Government railway and other loans, with a view to the protection of their interests.

The agreement provides that a date shall be provisionally fixed, probably November 14 or 15, whereon all purchases from Italy shall cease. Outstanding debts will be specially considered by the Committee of Mutual Support.—Reuter.

FEW EXCEPTIONS

London, Nov. 1.

According to a Geneva message, Austria, Albania, Hungary and the Dominican Republic are the only countries which have not yet replied to the League Nations regarding the imposition of sanctions against Italy.—British Wire.

GUFZA'S MEN
HUNT SLAYERS

Rome, Nov. 1.

Ras Gufza, the Ethiopian leader, who deserted to Italy some time ago, has undertaken a punitive expedition against his fellow-countrymen. He and his followers are in a frenzy of grief and rage since they have learned, according to Italian reports, that their women and children and other relatives have been slaughtered wholesale. A native runner brought the news.

This was an overwhelming blow. The tribesmen had already heard that if captured by the Ethiopians they would be killed in the manner reserved for regicides. They would be swathed in linen and coated with wax and honey and set afire.

Runners brought the news of the massacre on the evening of October 30, and Ras Gufza's men, under the command of Cagras Machebet at once marched to a point 66 miles south of the Italian lines which put them well beyond Makale.

Nothing has been heard from Adigrat, meanwhile, and Ras Gufza is eager to rejoin his second wife there, who is expecting a child and from whom he has heard no word since he went over to the Italians.

It is reported that his stone palace at Makale, built in European style, was sacked by the Ethiopians before the Italian attack, and was used for machine-gunner's nests during the fighting around the city.—Reuter.

SUSPECTED SPIES

Harrar, Nov. 1.

Ahmed Hassi, a Somali chief whom Emperor Selassie decorated last May, was brought here in chains to-day from Gorahal, with twelve tribesmen, all of whom are accused of spying on behalf of Italy.

The situation at Gorahal is most obscure.—Reuter.

CASUALTIES DENIED

Addis Ababa, Nov. 1.

The report that 3,600 casualties, including a commander, allegedly killed, had occurred in heavy fighting around Uvalul, was officially denied to-day by the Government.—Reuter.

ITALY'S LOSSES

Rome, Nov. 1.

It is officially announced that 199 officers and men of the Italian army have died in East Africa between January 1 and October 31. Of these only five were killed in action.—Reuter.

No mention is made of the reported massacre of a supply train

STRAIGHT FIGHTS

IN BULK OF HUSTINGS

Rome, Nov. 1.

National Government candidates have 347 straight fights with independents, according to present indications, although there may be other candidates in the field at the last minute.

There will be 139 three-cornered fights and eight four-cornered contests. Twenty-two candidates will be unopposed and 33 altogether are not being contested by National Government candidates.

The first election nomination was lodged at Oxford University where the candidates are Lord Cecil, Unionist, Mr. C. R. Crutwell, Conservative, Professor J. L. Stocks, Labour, Mr. A. P. Herbert, the well-known author, independent Nationalist.

There are two seats at Oxford and the previous members of Parliament were Lord Hugh Cecil and Sir Charles Oman, Conservative.—Reuter.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

London, Nov. 2.

A pronounced swing in favour of Conservatives against Labour is shown in the results so far announced in the municipal elections held in over 360 cities, towns and boroughs in England and Wales (excluding London) yesterday.

The final state of the parties at midnight, when a hundred results were at hand, shows that the Conservatives had secured 56 gains and 18 losses, the Liberals 10 gains and 12 losses, Labour 30 gains and 60 losses, and Independents 20 gains and 26 losses.—Reuter.

He said the Minister was sleeping peacefully.

Meanwhile, doctors are trying hard to save the life of the gunman, Sun, whom police are anxious to question further.

Mingled with the general gloom over Mr. Wang's misfortune was the relief at the news that Mr. Kuan Nai-kwang and Mr. Chang Chi were uninjured. The only other casualty was a janitor who was wounded in the leg by a stray bullet. He was taken to hospital and is out of danger.

BRITISH WARES

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received Nov. 2, 8 a.m.)

Rome, Oct. 1.

There have been more and increasingly serious anti-British manifestations here.

The windows in a shop in Via de Icondotli were smashed by a crowd of 150 persons for displaying material labelled "British Cloth."

Shops stocking British goods are hurriedly concealing the fact. Strips of paper are being pasted over labels which are unmistakably British, and obviously biscuits. Importers are complaining that it is almost impossible to get British goods out of the customs, indicating an unofficial conspiracy on the part of the authorities.

STUDENTS RIOT

Rome, Nov. 1.

Students staged anti-English demonstrations throughout the city to-day, attacking stores, hotels and tea-rooms considered in any way pro-British.—United Press.

WAVE OF HATRED

Rome, Nov. 1.

A new wave of anti-British hatred flamed in the streets and in the press, following the King's speech to the nation, urging unity and courage.

Students are boiling with rage at Britain's leadership in international opposition to Italy's ambitions, and raided stores, hotels, bars and tea-rooms, defaced signs and generally gave warning against using foreign names on goods for sale.

The press ignored Britain's warning that the British Fleet would remain in the Mediterranean until newspaper attacks ceased. Signor Gayda rose to new heights of bitterness, accusing England of seeking "leisure for future British expansion" in Ethiopia.

Gayda called Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, and other British leaders, liars, and advised Italians to seek Britain's motive "not in a fanatical adoration of the League Covenant but in imperial designs."

One newspaper has begun printing on page one, in bold faced type, the names of nations supporting penalties against Italy in order "to distinguish friends from enemies."—United Press.

In order to comply with Signor Mussolini's instructions for the restriction of consumption of fuel and various other commodities, the state railways have decided to effect a gradual reduction in the number of passenger trains operating, beginning November 6.

On that date 46 train schedules will be cancelled, including several expresses.—Reuter and Reuter Special.

REAL BEAUTY ON SCREEN

"Becky Sharp" Is Triumph Of Colour

Last night, Hongkong witnessed its first gala premiere since "Cavalcade"; when "Becky Sharp", the first feature film made in the new Technicolor, was screened at the Queen's Theatre.

Hongkong audiences had their appetites whetted for three-colour Technicolor with "La Cucaracha", screened at the King's Theatre some months ago.

The exquisite nature of this well-remembered short film has been preserved—in fact, exceeded—in the latest Technicolor film from the RKO-Radio studios, which are pioneering the new process just as Warner Brothers pioneered talkies less than a decade ago.

The most obvious merits of the new process is that the details of objects remain clear and the colour is strikingly natural. There are really fascinating scenes, such as cinemagoers have never before witnessed on the screen—silver no longer—at the Waterloo ball, one of the chief scenes in the story of Becky. Undoubtedly the most successful scene is that which shows two figures silhouetted and very dark in the foreground, while in the background are many brightly coloured dancers. In one scene the director, Rouben Mamoulian, shows his powers of imagination to a par excellent degree. This is the piece of pure fantasy, where the dancers at the Waterloo ball are driven into a panic by the distant sound of guns.

Colour's Advantage

The film is ingenious quite apart from colour, is brisk in its development, and always entertaining in the new and novel way that talkies were when they were first introduced. But it has this advantage: many first impressions of the talkies were of the almost intolerable ugliness of sound. There is no such irritation or fears for the future of colour photography.

The film is adopted from "Vanity Fair" by way of a play and considerably altered. But the characters are amusing and sharply drawn, even when they diverge from those of the book. Miriam Hopkins is very lively and charming in the part of Becky, Sir Cedric Hardwicke's Lord Steyne is a subtle and delicate villain, Alan Mowbray is very sympathetic as Rawdon Crawley, and Olaf Hytten gives too briefly a fascinating caricature of the Prince Regent, a monster of artificiality, who makes one's flesh creep.

The film will be shown at the Queen's Theatre from this afternoon onwards.

CHILD BURNED AT STAKE

MARTYR TO REALISM DIES IN HOSPITAL

Johannesburg, Oct. 25. Six-year-old Joan Symons, of Germiston, was proud of the role she was to play as a martyr of the Middle Ages being burned at the stake.

With due solemnity she was tied; a bonfire of newspapers was lit.

Then Fate stepped in. The flames shot higher than had been anticipated and before Joan could be freed from the stake she was burned about the face and body.

Her role as a martyr was to prove tragically realistic—she died in hospital to-day.

£170 A Month Alimony For John Barrymore's Wife

'SHRIMP' AND 'WINKIE' ROMANCE ENDED

New York, Oct. 25. JOHN BARRYMORE has failed for the first time in his matrimonial career to effect a divorce without bitterness:

His third wife, Dolores Costello, has remained adamant in her determination to secure a decree in California. But she has consented to eliminate from her bill of complaint all the original sensational allegations.

She no longer accuses her husband of habitual intoxication or of violent behaviour. After a conference between her lawyers and his, she has withdrawn her original complaint, and substituted an amended one in which she charges him merely, with desertion on August 28 last year.

The conference over, Mr. Barrymore placed a mortgage on his famous Tower Hill mansion to ensure payment to Miss Costello of £170 a month for the support of their two children.

And so the romance between "Shrimp" and "Winkie," as Mr. Barrymore and his third wife used fondly to call each other, comes to an end.

Mr. Barrymore was 27 when, in 1910, he married for the first time. His bride then was Katherine Harris, daughter of a noted lawyer, who became a creditable actress. They agreed amicably to divorce in 1917. Three years later Mr. Barrymore married Blanche Oelrichs Thomas, who, under the name of Michael Strange, wrote for him plays which, however, were not successful.

"Leading Lady"

Suddenly in 1928, at the age of 46, Mr. Barrymore started the stage world by announcing his intention of marrying Dolores Costello, his beautiful "leading lady."

Michael Strange then declared that she had divorced him several months before.

It has been Mr. Barrymore's boast that he remained "chums" with his first wife until her death, and that he was on excellent terms with Michael Strange and their daughter.

But he has failed to make his third divorce a friendly affair.

ARGENTINA AGAIN CLAIMS COLONY

WANTS TO TAX BRITONS

Buenos Aires, Oct. 10. The Argentines claim that the Falkland Islands are Argentine territory has been pushed a step further by the decision of the income tax authorities at Buenos Aires that all income derived from the islands is subject to Argentine taxation.

Earlier this year a similar gesture was made when the Minister of the Interior ordered the papers of two men born in the Falklands to be cancelled and documents issued describing them as Argentine citizens.—Reuter.

The Falkland Islands, in the Southern Atlantic have a population of 2,300. Captain Byron took possession of West Falkland for Britain in 1767, and in 1820 the Republic of Buenos Aires established a settlement which was destroyed by the Americans in 1831.

In 1833 Britain reoccupied the islands for the protection of the whale fishery.

DISNEY'S TECHNICOLOR: ARTISTE'S POLISH

A feast of cinematic entertainment is provided in Hongkong this week-end, notable for the release of some of the most important films of 1934-35.

One is "Becky Sharp," reviewed elsewhere, and scheduled for release to-day after a brilliant gala premiere last night.

Another is the first Mickey Mouse cartoon in the new Technicolor used in "Becky Sharp." This is "Mickey's Band Concert," undoubtedly the best cartoon film yet produced from the facile pens of Walt Disney's assistants.

It will be admirable support for the main feature film to be released at the King's Theatre to-day. This is "Cardinal Richelieu," produced by 20-Century Films before they broke away from United Artists and joined the Fox banner. It is one of the few remaining 20-Century films to be released by United Artists.

Tell-tale Latch Key Invention

FOR WIVES OF THOSE "WORKING LATE"

Devices to aid novices to improve their golf, tennis and bridge, and an invention whereby any broadcast programme can be "trapped" and recorded for future enjoyment are features of two exhibitions opened in London recently.

One man, exhibiting at the Eleventh International Inventions Exhibition, opened by Lord Aspasia at the Central Hall, Westminster, claims to demonstrate head movement during a golf swing, and, with a second invention, to teach correct timing.

The latter promise is based on the use of special device, which must be attached to the club during practice, but which it is claimed does not alter the balance.

Another device seeks to provide the equivalent of a full round of golf, with varied stroke and holes, within a space only 20 to 50 feet across.

Tennis practice is provided for by another inventor; and, for those who mistrust their neighbours at bridge, a new type of automatic card dealer, is on view.

A Cake-Slicer

The inventions shown cover the presumed needs of the greater part of life and industry, ranging from a new line in hydraulic lifting tackle to a knife which will cut two slices of cakes at once.

One of the mechanical novelties at the Business Efficiency Exhibition, opened at the White City by Lord Leverhulme, demonstrates that in the future no broadcast programme need ever be missed.

All that will be necessary for those who expect to be out for the evening will be to leave instructions for a button, adjoining their radio receiver, to be pressed at, say, 9 p.m., and for a second button to be pressed at 9.5 p.m., and the intervening programme will be automatically recorded.

As an additional refinement, it will be possible to arrange for a time-switch to carry out both tasks, so that the whole operation can be automatically carried out in a completely empty house.

One of the business applications of the same instrument is the recording of long distance telephone calls, with a consequent saving in the telephone account.

MAX FACTOR

The proof of good eye make-up is in it's not being obvious at first glance. No man wants his wife to have that artificial aspect, young girls eighteen can over-paint her mouth defiantly and use much too much mascara and still get her man—if he takes the trouble to find the real her under the bad "paint job." But once she gets him it's another story. How often have you heard a woman say inquisitively to her husband: "But you liked me made up this way before we were married . . ." Yes, he liked her in spite of it! Now you see, it's different. She belongs to him. He wants her natural looking. That is why young matrons should be so artful with their make-up.

KILLED BY ROCK

BELIEVED HURLED BY HILLSIDE BLASTING

An inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death of a woman, Cheng Pat-har, who was apparently killed as a result of a piece of rock from blasting operations on the hillside flying into No. 106 Electric Road and striking her, on the afternoon of September 3, was opened by Mr.

Q. A. A. MacAdeney at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon.

The jury comprised Messrs. L. A.
Calcraft (Foreman), L. A. da Costa and R. G. Xavier.

Mr. H. J. Armstrong appeared on behalf of Yung Chi-ping, husband of the dead woman.

In evidence, Yung Chi-ping said that he resided on the first floor of
No. 106 Electric Road. On September 3 he returned home about 4.30 p.m. and went to the kitchen at the rear of the house. About fifteen minutes after he had entered the kitchen, he heard a bang, and soon after leaving the kitchen he saw a lump of rock in the front part of the sitting room near the verandah, which opens out into the street. The sound of the bang brought him out of the kitchen. He thought the rock had been blown there, because there had been blasting about that time.

Found Wife Unconscious

When he came out of the kitchen
he saw his wife lying on the ground, and on turning round saw the piece of rock. It was too heavy to have been thrown by anyone. There was a cliff opposite the house where blasting was going on, but he could not see it from the verandah, because there were the transmills, a block of houses; a small lane and another block of houses intervening.

The cliff was also a considerable distance away from the house.

Yung Chi-ping, aged 53, living at 110 Electric Street, second floor, testified that about 4.15 p.m. on the day in question he heard his son shout, "Father, come over here; save me!" Witness immediately ran across and saw his daughter-in-law lying on the verandah in a pool of blood. She did not speak.

Witness gave formal evidence of identification at the mortuary, and added that the couple had been married for seven years and were happy.

At this stage the hearing was adjourned to November 9 at 2.30 p.m.

Homes of Character in Sunny South Devon
With a house in South Devon you need not flee from England in winter. At Churston, near Paignton and Torbay, are houses distinctive in design with sunrooms and spacious windows to capture every moment of sunshine. The coast is peaceful and beautiful, bathing and golf are excellent and the houses are carefully planned to solve the servant problem. And, what is so important these days, they are completely protected against mass development. NOTES OF THE DAY

STEADY PROGRESS

The latest news of British approach to recovery comes from one of the most seriously "depressed" areas in the country. Ebbsvale has not had any business for six years. Its citizens, formerly employed in the great steel mills and mines of the area, have lived hopelessly on the dole for seventy-two months or more. Tradesmen have suffered almost as much as they. Their businesses have gradually dwindled to mere pittance or, more often, show a loss, and the once thriving community has steadily sunk into a quagmire of despair from which there seemed no escape. Imagine those pitifully destitute and heart-broken workers, many of them experts at trades they spent years to perfect, who had lost their employment and seen their savings vanish, who had spent the past six years waiting for nothing but their dole, whose families lived in poverty and fretful uncertainty. Suddenly the news bursts upon them. Richard Thomas and Company will re-open the steel mills and the mines! There will be immediate work for hundreds. Eventually 10,000 will probably be employed. No wonder men wept for joy in Monmouthshire.

IS IT JUSTICE?

One day in September a posse of eight deputy sheriffs crept to the house of John Crempa, a Polish-born truck farmer in Scotch Plains, N. J. They smashed a window, threw tear gas bombs into the little home, rushed to cover and waited for the family to come out. Then they fired. John Crempa was wounded, his wife killed. Was Crempa wanted for murder? No. Was he a fugitive from justice or a public enemy? No. Had Crempa become a nuisance to anyone? Yes. For eight years he had been a thorn in the side of the Public Service Gas & Electric Company, which wanted to run a power line over the truck farmer's small patch of land. Crempa stubbornly refused permission. Even after a court had awarded right of way to the company in condemnation proceedings he refused the compensation offered and kept up the fight. He short-circuited the electric lines, sometimes throwing entire communities into darkness. Undoubtedly Crempa was obstinate and, violently insistent on what he understood his rights to be, did not hesitate at causing inconvenience to others. And he had disobeyed a court order.

NO EXCUSE.

All of which affords no shadow of excuse for eight armed men surrounding an American citizen's home, smoking out the occupants with tear gas and then shooting to kill, asserts the Christian Science Monitor. The deputies claim self-defence. But no evidence has been offered that Mrs. Crempa carried a weapon. Surely New Jersey justice provides other ways of arresting a man for contempt of court than by sending a small army to bomb his home and shoot down his family? Late we've heard much talk of defending the Constitution. Wouldn't this be a good place to begin? That document (Article 4 of the Bill of Rights) provides that: "The right of the people to secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated." Will some of the Liberty League lawyers step up now and devote their great abilities to ending such intolerable and fatal violations of individual rights by agents of government? Is this right less important than the right of a big corporation to discharge an employee for joining a union? Of course, there will be no rich fees in it. But then, there is the Constitution.

munity, and possibly put a stop to pressure on the dollar, by coming out with a reassuring statement dispelling the rumours which have gained such wide currency. It is held that such a step would do more than anything else to steady the market. Conditions, under the prevalent depression, are bad enough already; they are being made infinitely worse by the speculative hammering of the exchange market. If the Government could do anything to compose the situation, the business community of the Colony would greatly rejoice.

HOLLYWOOD ROBS the RAINBOW

By A Special Film Correspondent

WHEN I left the Queen's pianissimo. Then, as the colour film I felt just as I did of Napoleon's early talking pictures. This was a forward leap as big as heard, the tints deepened, became sombre, and were designed to suggest the shadow of doom:

As a film, "Becky Sharp" doesn't do justice to "Vanity Fair." Hollywood has been less kind to Thackeray than to Dickens. But as a new experience I found it breath-taking. Colour has swept over the movies in a full tide. As a fresh departure "Becky Sharp" is much more satisfactory than "The Jazz Singer" and the other early experiments in talking pictures.

Then the colour began to quicken in response to the confusion and dismay that fell upon the dancers. In the same way that the orchestral commentary in Wagner's "Triumph through Technicolor's and in "Becky Sharp". Strauss is nearly always more supple and eloquent than the human voices, so I felt drowsy. They will be hard put to the pulsing colours conveyed to the it to find stories in which emotions of the actors in these scenes far more effectively than the snatches of talk, the sharp cries, the sound effects, the gathering storm of cannon. The long crescendo certainly played on the nerves of the audience. It rose to a fine climax. The British officers in their uniforms of scarlet and gold and blue running pell-mell from the ball-room, the women in their brilliant gowns, were like the shining pieces in a kaleidoscope that a child is shaking madly.

I forgot all the faults of the story and the acting in the thrill of the new experience. It was rather like hearing full orchestra for the first time and realising all the wonderful combinations of tone that could be produced. The technical process employed is a vast improvement over the garish two-colour experiments one used to see. This picture has an astonishing variety of hues ranging from pearly grey to the most gorgeous scarlet.

The peak of splendour was reached in the scenes at the Duchess of Richmond's ball at Waterloo, which, thanks to Byron, Thackeray and Hardy, is the best-known ball in history. In this sequence Reuben palette and brushes; and splashes Mamoulian, the producer, used colour about with no reason colour with a cunning hand to except to show its resources, build up an emotional climax, then people will soon grow tired Here again, I had the curious sense of following music, of Wagnerian climax with all the novelty.

We shall all have to accustom our eyes to these new splendours. A great many film-goers will not like the change, but their protests will probably be as unavailing as those that

"BECKY SHARP" showed, however, that there are dangers-in-this-conquest-by-the intelligency of the film products. They will be hard put to the pulsing colours conveyed to the it to find stories in which emotions of the actors in these scenes far more effectively than the snatches of talk, the sharp cries, the sound effects, the gathering storm of cannon. The long crescendo certainly played on the nerves of the audience. It rose to a fine climax. The British officers in their uniforms of scarlet and gold and blue running pell-mell from the ball-room, the women in their brilliant gowns, were like the shining pieces in a kaleidoscope that a child is shaking madly.

It may be that a childish pleasure in these fluid colours running into one another made me exaggerate to myself the importance of this new development. But it did really seem to have the most wonderful possibilities both in making beautiful patterns and in heightening the emotions of a situation by an artful assault on the senses.

The peak of splendour was reached in the scenes at the Duchess of Richmond's ball at Waterloo, which, thanks to Byron, Thackeray and Hardy, is the best-known ball in history. In this sequence Reuben palette and brushes; and splashes Mamoulian, the producer, used colour about with no reason colour with a cunning hand to except to show its resources, build up an emotional climax, then people will soon grow tired

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

Even people suffering from myopic aloofness can perceive the damage which Shanghai speculators are doing to the Hongkong dollar.

How easy it must be to transact business these days. For example, based on local exchange, the price of mouse-traps this morning was $1.25-35-45-65-35-50 per dozen.

People who deny the possibility of perpetual motion should watch the Hongkong dollar.

It is rumoured that the Rifle Association may take over the Kowloon Golf Course. Magpies instead of eagles.

Mussolini denies that he has any territorial ambitions in Africa outside Ethiopia. And as far as this is concerned, all he wants to do is Caesar.

Latest simile: As reckless as an Italian general who offers to fight Joe Louis.

Any reports of the Italian capture of Harar should be taken with a grain of salt.

Italian troops exiled in Africa have chosen "Rome, Sweet Rome" as their most popular song.

A phosphorescent keyhole has been invented. This makes burglary too ridiculously easy!

"New Neck Adornment", says a newspaper heading. Arms, however, still hold their own.

POPPY DAY APPEAL

HELPERS WHO WILL ORGANISE COLLECTIONS

In addition to the many other ways in which the British Legion fills a need, urgent and widespread, and pays the debt that is our common heritage from the Great War, is by helping ex-officers through the Officers' Benevolent Department. Last year 11,800 financial awards to necessitous ex-officers at a cost of £50,039 were made, 481 ex-officers placed in employment, 1,403 provided with clothing, and 1,271 children helped with their education at a cost of £28,268.

The benevolent work of the British Legion is dependent upon voluntary support given in response to the appeals which are made by Haig's Fund.

ARAGON'S FINE OPPOSITION MANNERS IN SPORT

TAKES ONE SET FROM ACE

COCHET EXTENDED BUT EXCELS

CHARITY MATCH'S TAME CONCLUSION

The largest crowd that has yet attended the professional tennis exhibitions at the K.C.C. yesterday witnessed the French ace, Henri Cochet, fully extended in several passages of an exciting duel with Francisco Aragon.

Cochet won the match at 7-5, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, and had to pull out some brilliant shots to confine the meeting to four sets.

The crowd was delighted with the exhibition in which the Filipino exponent repeated his previous performance in taking a set from the visitor. The proceeds of the event were for charity.

From the start Aragon touched the peak of his form whilst Cochet was frequently wrong with his ground shots and made other mistakes. Aragon never went up to the net and on the occasions when Cochet attempted to play the shots in which he excels the Filipino passed him adroitly on the side lines.

From four-all, Aragon went to 5-4 and eventually reached set point. Cochet was serving and he brought off a timely ace to relieve the position. Throughout the next set Cochet was recovering the touch which he displayed in earlier exhibitions. He made Aragon run between the corners and carefully brought him out of position before smashing down on his back hand. Though Aragon is notably equipped in this department his back hand strokes grew weaker during the match under the heavy bombardment.

Cochet was fully extended during the third set and there were several long and clever rallies in which the Filipino displayed a strategy which delighted the spectators and drew spontaneous applause. As Cochet's difficulties grew he drew from a wider range of strokes and retrieved often in amazing fashion. He conceded the set at 6-3 but provided brilliant entertainment.

The last set found the Frenchman forcing the pace against an opponent who was too tired to chase the ball but still put up a fine though losing display.

After the match Aragon remarked that he had an unfortunate faculty of losing sets even when he was in the lead. "The bounce of the ball often confused me. It is an old trouble," he said.

Cochet said he was leaving for Australia to-day though he did not know with whom he would play in the Antipodes.

About local tennis he was dubious. "Not bad—fair," was his comment.

A rather tame conclusion to the afternoon was the doubles game afterwards in which Cochet and S. Green lost 6-1 to Aragon and Canavarro. The light was fading fast and the game was abandoned after the first set.

Par Excellence Play Before Notabilities

Macao, Oct. 31.

Keen enthusiasm was displayed here to-day at the Club Civil where magnificent tennis was witnessed by a large crowd. Tournaments on a hard court had been arranged for Henri Cochet, the French professional and former Davis Cup player who gave an exhibition of tennis par excellence.

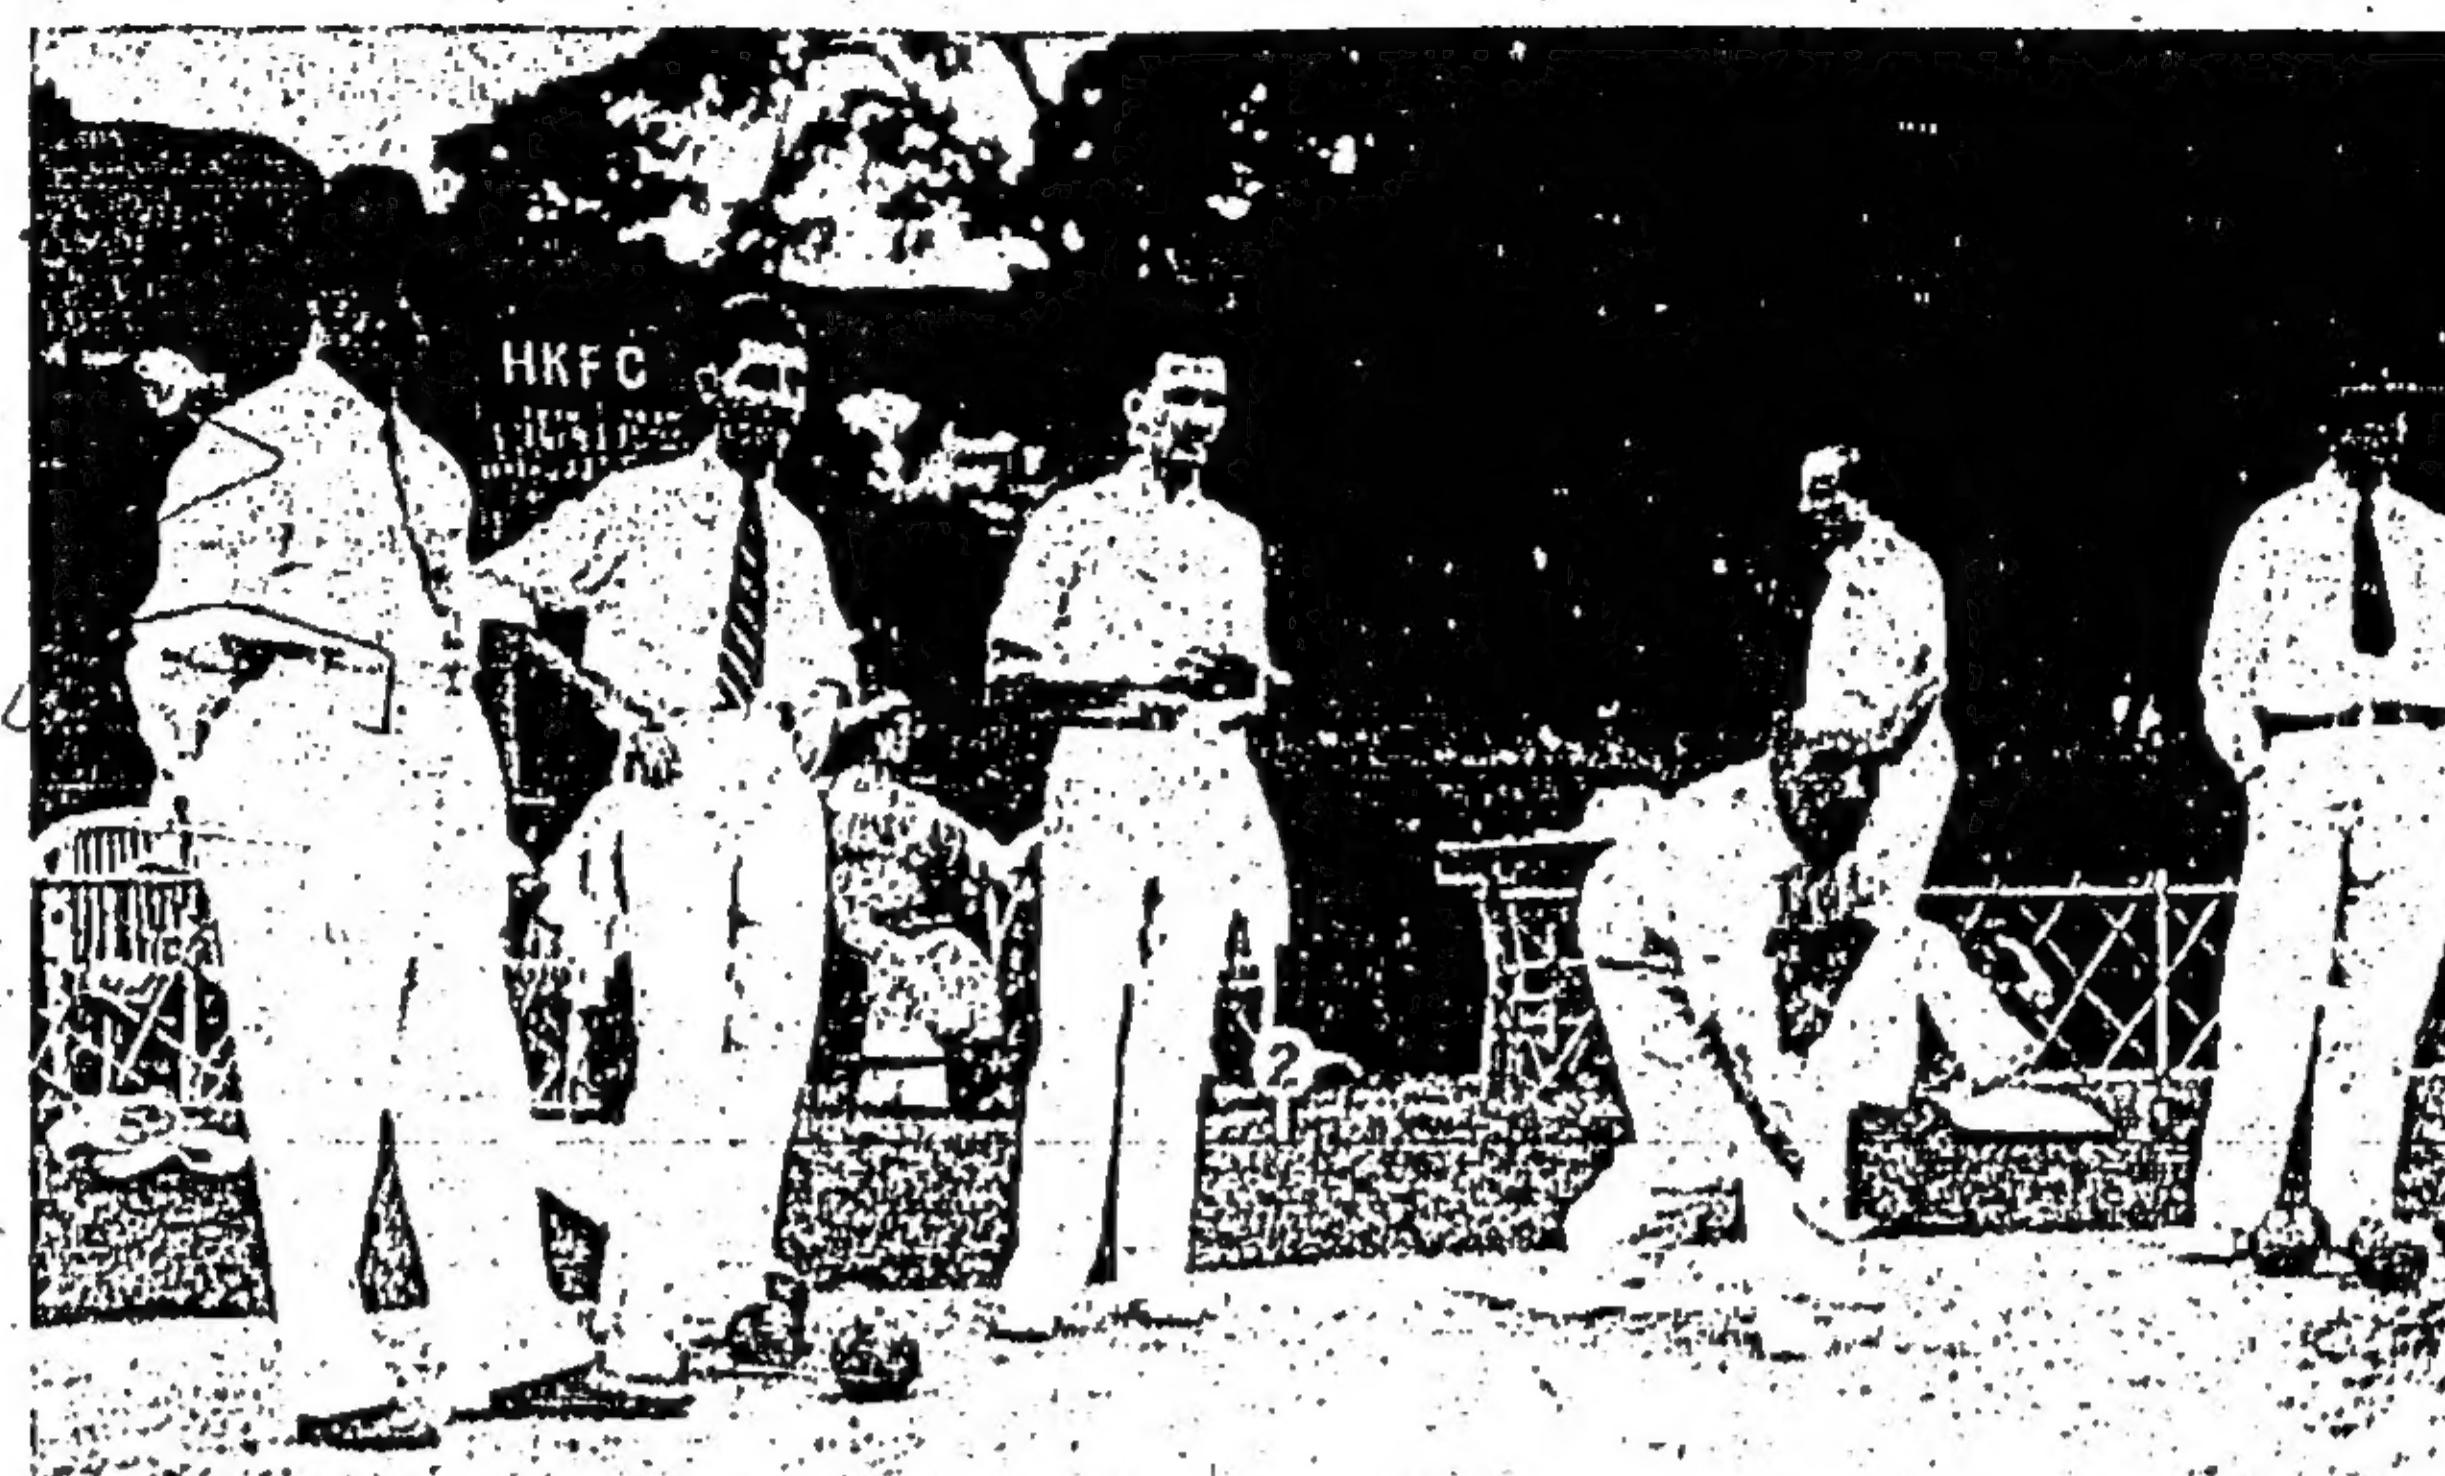

In the programme which had been arranged, Raoul Canavarro, the Portuguese tennis champion from Shanghai engaged in a spectacular encounter resting on the decision of the best of three sets. Aragon, who proved a stubborn opponent, was defeated;

The score was 6-4, 6-3. Cochet displayed complete mastery of the game and delighted the spectators with his versatility, dexterous service and vigorous drives for which he received well deserved applause.

EVEN ENCOUNTER

The doubles match in which Cochet and Tavares were paired against Aragon and Canavarro, proved a much more evenly-contested encounter. The first set went to Aragon and Canavarro, 6-3. The second found Cochet and his partner battling throughout and defeating their opponents by 8-6. Cochet's brilliance was further revealed in the succeeding set when despite the somewhat erratic and temperamental play of his partner the set resulted in victory for Cochet and Tavares, 6-3.

The tournament was attended by H.E. the acting Governor, Dr. J. Pereira Barbosa, Madame Pereira Barbosa, and His Lordship the Bishop of Macao, J. Costa da Nunes and many official guests.—Our Own Correspondent.

LADIES FOR SHANGHAI

ANNUAL HOCKEY MEETING

The annual general meeting of the Hongkong Ladies' Hockey Association was held yesterday afternoon in the Gloucester Hotel, presided over by Miss H. M. Knill, vice-president.

A very satisfactory report and statement of accounts was presented by the secretary, Mrs. P. M. Harrop, the balance to the credit of the Association being $1,011.12.

Her letter greatly influenced the M.C.C. in consenting to the change being given a trial.

As captain of South Australia, in succession to the brilliant Victor Richardson, Bradman will lead the State team against the M.C.C. side which will play a match at Adelaide beginning November 8.

Hockey Club second eleven going down to the Lincolns by three goals to one.

The Radio-Brigade encounter, which was played at Caroline Hill, was fast and exciting, although the Gunners had slightly the better of play throughout. All the goals were scored in the first half. The Radio team were the first to open the scoring when, about ten minutes after the commencement, Gurkhan Singh sent in a well-placed shot to beat the Gunners' goalkeeper. The Gunners retaliated by keeping the ball continuously in their opponents' half. They were rewarded for their efforts when Raja Singh equalised with a good shot. The same player scored again almost immediately afterwards, to put his side one up.

The second-half saw the Gunners doing most of the attacking, but they failed to increase their score owing to the stubborn defence put up by the Radio.

Lieut. Ramus, who played at right-wing for the Gunners, was in fine form, and although he did not actually score the goals, was largely instrumental in his side winning.

"I'LL FLATTEN THE SEPIA SLUGGER!"

TONGUE THRASHING IS DYING OUT

(By ROBERT LYND)

Many people, I think, were a little hard on Max Baer because of the wild threats he uttered against Joe Louis on the eve of the big fight. "I'll flatten the sepiia slugger," he exclaimed, "like I flattened Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera. I'll just tear the head off his shoulders."

After all, threats of the same kind had proved effective against Carnera, when Max warmed up his fighting blood by declaring: "I shall spread Primo on canvas like an imported Italian rug. I intend to knock pulp out of the big apple."

Max Baer is not the first fighter to have kept up his confidence with boastful words. All fighters must practise a kind of Coulson in order to work up the spirit of invincibility. Among some savage races, when they are too excited to be articulate, the fighting men find yelling and minking faces useful aids to victory.

If we only had a full account of the war between the Greeks and the Trojans, we might conceivably discover that Achiles, before his encounter with Hector, boasted to his son: "I'll knock his block off"; and Hector retorted: "I'll jump on him till he looks more like a sack of potatoes than a human being." There were no reporters present on the Trojan plain, however, to incite heroes to talk naturally and to pass the talk on to posterity.

IN DAYS OF OLD

I do not know enough of the history of the great British boxers to be able to say whether any of them was in the habit of giving his opponent a tongue thrashing on the eve of the real thrashing. An Englishman of action is seldom given to words. He would possibly like to say the wildest things; but he has not the American's literary gift.

You must have a literary vein in your composition in order to be able to abuse your opponents properly. The Max Baer of England have nearly all been men of letters, or politicians with literary leanings.

John Milton was the English Max Baer par excellence. He and his opponents murdered each other with their mouths till you would have thought that nothing but a strong posse of police could have prevented them from coming to deadly grips with each other. They accused each other of all the vices they could think of and of which none of them probably was guilty.

If you disliked a man in those days and were of a literary turn you simply called him a drunkard, a coward, a male Jezebel, and a monster worse than Nero, and suggested that the only reason why you did not go out and beat him to a jelly was that it was so long since he washed last that you would not touch him with a 40ft. pole.

FEROIOUS MILTON

When Milton went blind his famous opponent Salmasius boasted that it was he who had cost him the loss of his sight by compelling him to write so much. Milton replied ferociously: "And I shall cost him his life." And, in a sense, he did.

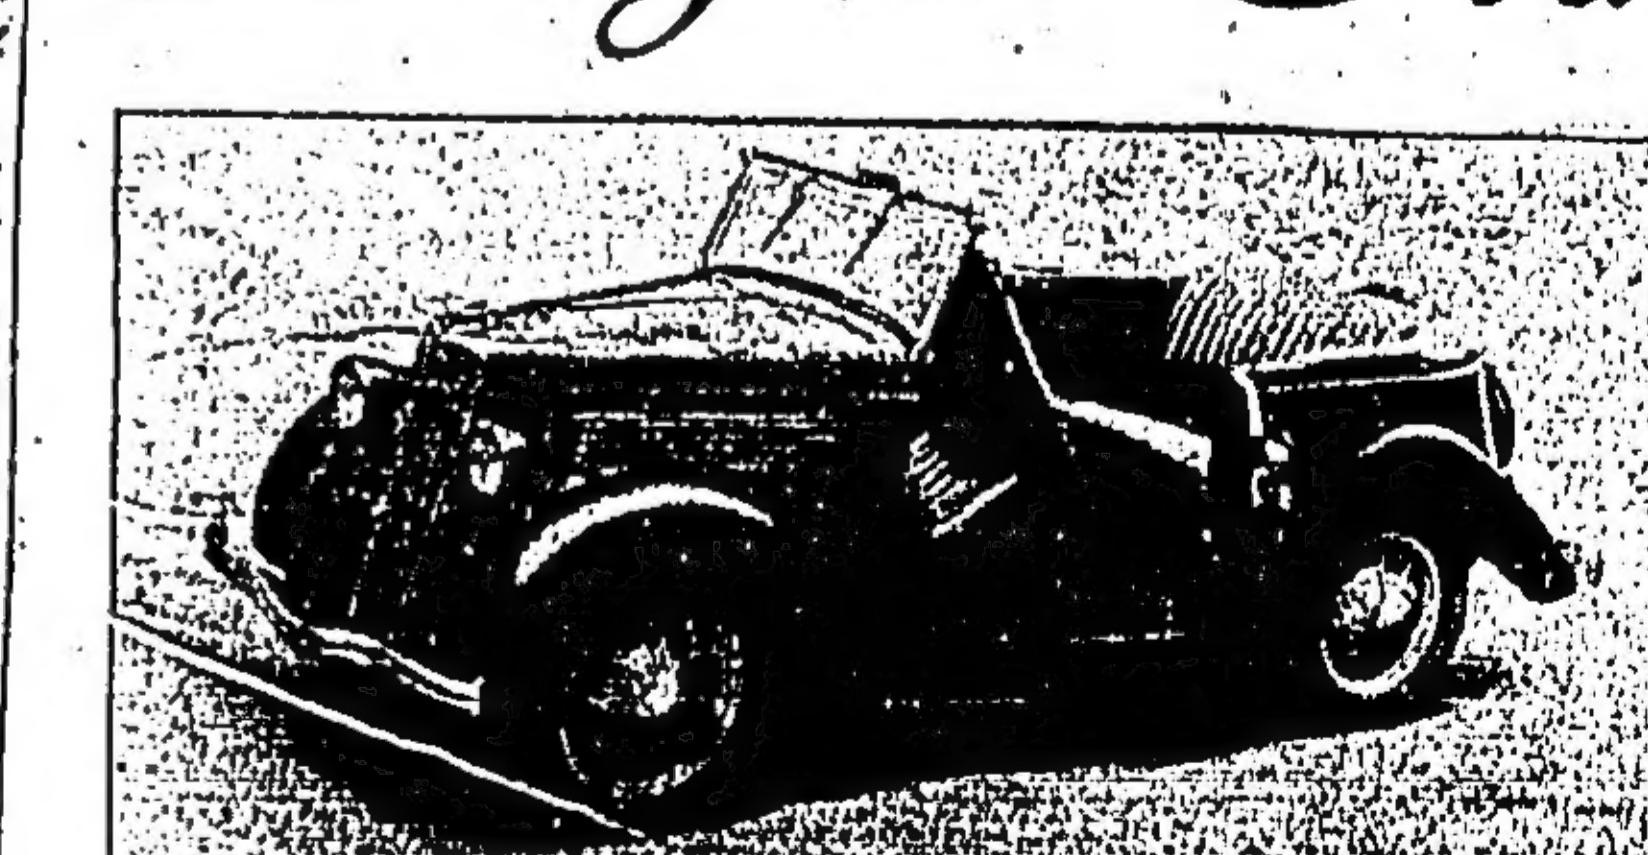

On the eve of the war certain English politicians, maddened by Mr. Lloyd George, showed an almost equal command of language. One of them who afterwards became Prime Minister boasted that, in a certain event, the people of England would hang Roman Catholics as high as human from lamp-posts. That was the true Max Baer spirit, and it was echoed from scores of platforms.

English sportsmen, however, seem never to have possessed literary talents of this high order. Most of

NEW ELEMENT IN WORLD SPORT

MANNERS IN SPORT

They are so inarticulate that, if interviewed on the eve of a match, they are reduced to mumbling some hopefully unferocious commonplace such as: "May the best side win!"

TIMID ENGLISHMEN

If Arsenal are to meet Sunderland, the Arsenal captain does not tell the reporters the day before: "We're going to give those Sunderland chaps such a hiding that by the end of the match their mothers won't know them." If he spoke at all, he would probably say merely: "I hope for the best."

Similarly, on the eve of the Rugby match between Oxford and Cambridge, neither of the rival captains, I believe, has ever been known to boast: "We're going to knock those fellows into the middle of next week. We're going to make them feel as if a ton of bricks had fallen on them, and then some."

Nor do the mothers of the players at Twickenham sit round and shout encouraging cries, like Max Baer's mother, such as: "Go to it, honey boy. Get him. Sock him! Sock him!" That is how, they feel, in doubt, but the gift of language is missing.

Thus the manners of English sport have become increasingly gentle—so sedately gentle that Wynt was gravely rebuked during the summer for making an innocent joke about hoping that rain would fall at the right time during the last Test match and so enable England to win. What everybody wanted and expected him to say was: "May the best side win?" Some grammarians, perhaps, would have wanted him to say, not "best," but "better."

As a result of this gentleness, even the spectators have become comparatively gentle. Few referees are chased from the field nowadays. Even boozing has declined as a spectator's pastime.

BOOING AT BOXING

For some reason or other, however, boozing remains commoner at boxing matches than in any other form of sport. It may be that, more than any other forms of sport, boxing and wrestling appeal to the primitive passions and invite even the spectators to the utterance of jungle noises.

I myself hate the sound of "boo," like an unsuccessful dramatist on a first night. I hate to hear a referee being booed, and I hate still more to hear an unsuccessful fighter being boozed.

I was in Olympia on the night on which Madrall wrestled with Hackenschmidt and lost as the result of having his arm broken; and I have never heard a noise that did more discredit to human lungs and vocal cords than the boozing of the tortured giant in defeat.

Max Baer's downfall, apparently, was greeted with a similar barbarous storm of anger, as though he had not already suffered enough at the hands of the "sepia slugger."

To my mind the man who cannot refrain from boozing a fallen idol at a boxing match is not fit to be a spectator of any form of sport. He should stay at home and make animal noises to amuse—or bore—the children.

—fancy—if some great boxers were to threaten their boozers in the same juicy phraseology in which they threaten their opponents, this would lead before long to a marked improvement of manners in sport. Till this happens the best thing to do, perhaps, would be to draw up a black-list of boozers and exclude them from all sporting contests.

GIRL TENNIS STAR

America's Challenger
To Helen Jacobs?

Los Angeles, Patricia Corinne ("Patty") Henry of Los Angeles may be a new threat to Helen Jacobs' ranking at the head of the woman's tennis list.

Eighteen-year-old Patty took the girl's national singles title by beating Elena Ciccone of Boston in the finals at Philadelphia.—Associated Press.

In 1932, Japan was fifth of thirty-six nations, having achieved a first, a second, two third, four fifth, and four sixth places. Most significant was the appearance of a Japanese in the "hundred" final.

This pointed the way to triumphs at long distances and jumping.

Those sprinting hopes were justifiably for the first time only a few

COLOURED ATHLETES' BIG CAMPAIGN

NEGRO TEAM TO BREAK WORLD RECORDS UNDER OWENS

JAPANESE PRODUCE SPRINTERS FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

New forces are at work in the athletic world. The coloured races have found that the ideal outlet for the expression of their sporting instincts is on the running track and in the athletic field. In two separate quarters of the globe serious preparations are already in hand for depriving the white races of that world athletic supremacy which has always been theirs. Moreover, these plans have every prospect of a large measure of success.

In America the nineteen-year-old black student of Ohio State University, Jesse Owens, who during the summer achieved the unparalleled distinction of breaking three world records in one afternoon, is planning the establishment of a negro training college with the object of forming an all-black team to beat the world.

PANTHER STRIDES

Abundant human material of the right calibre is at Owen's hand. For instance, there is Eulace Pollard, who has been credited with 9-1-5 sec. for 100 yards and over 26 ft. for the long jump; Cornelius Johnson, who has jumped 6 ft. 8½ in. high in competition, a genuine 6 ft. 10½ in. in practice, and is as likely as any man to be first over 7 ft.; and Eddie Tolan carried off the Olympic sprint double at Los Angeles with Ralph Metcalfe, another negro, on his heels over the shorter and third over the longer distance; E. L. Gordon won the long jump. Phil Edwards, from British Guiana, proved himself one of the greatest milers or half-milers of all time by finishing third in both the 1,500 and 800 metres.

In the Canadian negro, sixteen-year-old Sam Richardson, all but won the hop-step-and-jump from the Imperial record-holder. Londoners will also remember the Polytechnic musician, Jack London, winner of the A.A.A. and runner-up in the 1928 Olympic hundred.

Edwards has proved that negroes can last, but greatest of them all is the "Black Flash," Owen himself. His action is the smoothest ever seen, and he never seems exhausted. His world's records are for the long jump (26 ft. 8½ in.), the 220 yards low hurdles (22 3-5 sec.), and the 220 yards flat (20 3-10 sec.). On that basis, he can be compared only with the hitherto incomparable "Flying Finn," Paavo Nurmi.

In Japan, seventy-six picked athletes have already been in special Olympic training for over a year, under the personal supervision of the great Cuchi Nambu, who still holds the official world records for the long jump (26 ft. 21½ in.) and the hop-step-and-jump (51 ft. 7 in.). The possibilities of the Japanese bid to eclipse the West may be judged from the country's progress between 1921 and 1932. In 1921, Japan got two men through to the Olympic finals for the first time. In 1928, Mikio Oda won the hop-step, and Nambu was fourth; two Japanese were placed in the marathon, and others were sixth in the high and pole-jumps.

JAPANESE PROWESS

In 1932, Japan was fifth of thirty-six nations, having achieved a first, a second, two third, four fifth, and four sixth places. Most significant was the appearance of a Japanese in the "hundred" final. This pointed the way to triumphs at long distances and jumping. Those sprinting hopes were justified for the first time only a few

LEAGUE FOOTBALL

Chinese Teams Resume Their Programme

LEE WAI-TONG TO PLAY

Except for his appearance in the Shield Final last year when he helped South China "B" to beat the Police, Lee Wai-tong, the idol of thousands of Chinese soccer fans, has not been seen in local League football for a long time, but to-morrow he will turn out for South China "A" in a League match against the Navy.

It will be recalled that Lee's brilliance was mainly responsible for Hongkong's triumph in the Soccer Championship at the National Meet held last month in Shanghai. In the final against Kwangtung, he scored all three goals for the Colony.

All the Hongkong footballers who participated in the National Championships returned yesterday morning, accompanied by the Canton players.

Players have been chosen to represent the South China A.A. in League fixtures over the week-end.

The following will turn out for the "A" against the Navy at Causeway Bay to-morrow:— Wong Ki-leung (Wong Wing); Lee Tin-sung; Tam Kang-pak; Leung Wing-chiu; Wong Mee-shun; Li Kwok-wai; Fan Kwan-shing; Fung King-cheung; Lee Wai-tong; Ip Pui-wan; Cheng Kwan-hung (Tay Quee-lung). Reserve: Lau Hing-chol.

The South China "B," who will play the Royal Welch Fusiliers to-day will be represented by—Pau Kan-ping; Leung In-chun; Yu Hing-wah; Li Kam; Lam Tak-pui; Henry Young; Yeung Shui-yick; Lai Shiu-wing; George Tsang; Cheuk Shek-kam and Li Shek-yau.

COULD NOT KNIT FOR NEURITIS

If neuritis bothers you, deal with it as this woman dealt with hers:

"For years I was unable to knit, she writes, "owing to neuritis in my hands. Last year I started taking Kruschen, and now the knitting cruse is on—I can keep up with anyone. Already this year I have knitted about 12 pieces in all, including men's sweaters and ladies' fancy pullovers, as well as several babies' articles. Naturally, I feel quite proud, and I owe it all to Kruschen. I have not felt in better health for years and will keep on taking Kruschen as long as I live."—(Mrs.) A. S.

Neuritis is caused by deposits of needle-pointed, flint-hard uric acid crystals, which pierce the nerves and cause those stabbing pains. Kruschen salts break up these deposits of torturing crystals and convert them into a harmless solution, which is promptly removed through the natural channel—the kidneys. These salts in Kruschen coax your kidneys back to healthy, normal action, so that not a particle of clogging waste matter remains unexpelled.

KINGS PARK HOCKEY

LINCOLNS BEAT CLUB

At King's Park, the Lincolns defeated the Hongkong Hockey Club second eleven by three goals to one.

The Club were the first to open the scoring through Senior, but shortly afterwards Driver equalised for the Lincolns. The score was one-all when the interval arrived, but in the second half the Lincolns improved their play considerably and scored two goals through Jacobs and Brown.

In response to the request of the M.C.C., the Australian Board of Control to-day agreed to use the experimental l.b.w. rule, in the matches to be played by the British touring team which is now en route to Australia and New Zealand. The M.C.C. side, under the captaincy of E.R.T. Holmes of Surrey, will play five matches in Australia and 18 or 19 in New Zealand.—Reuter.

Australians Agree to Try

M.C.C. Rule

Perth, Nov. 1.

The M.C.C. innings closed for 345, Jamie Langridge, the Sussex all-rounder, making 59. (Earlier cables reported that Dennis Smith made 83 and Mitchell Innes 83.)

For West Australia, Ditchburn, a left-handed bowler, took 4 wickets for 46.

West Australia fared none too well against the visitors six men being dismissed for 165, of which Taaffe made 76.

Sims, whose analysis at present stands at 4 for 74, dismissed Newman under the new l.b.w. rule, and this was the first time that the much-debated innovation had been applied in Australia.—Reuter.

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

"Browner's Millions", a rollicking British "musical" with Jack Buchanan and Lili Damita in the leading parts, comes to the King's Theatre on Wednesday. The original comedy, which had a phenomenal run in the West End before the war, has, of course, been turned inside out in order to give Jack and his platoons of girl-friends ample opportunity to display their respective talents to the best advantage. The settings range from the interior of a Mayfair mansion to the market square at colourful Ajaccio, Corsica, whilst B. & D.'s chief cameraman went last summer in order to get material for an exact reproduction of the scene at Elstree. This set, which covered ten acres of the B. & D. studio at Elstree, was used for the spectacular carnival in which a crowd of over 1,000 danced and made merry in true Corsican fashion. Thornton Freeland, who directed, considers this the "high spot" of the film. Then the whole company, numbering more than a hundred, was taken for a trip round the Isle of Wight in a 1,600 ton yacht, but it was no pleasure voyage for complicated dance numbers on the deck, bridge and look-out cabin had to be shot in spite of choppy seas which sometimes made footholds precarious. This lasted a week to the disgust of those of the company who were "bad sailors". The cast is a strong one including, besides Jack Buchanan and Lili Damita, Fred Emery, Sydney Fairbrother, Nancy O'Neill, Inn McLean, Alain Aynsworth and Sebastian Shaw. Musical numbers are by Ray Noble and Mandy Eburne.

"Call of the Savage"

Unusual precautions had to be taken at Universal studios during the filming of that company's latest thrilling adventure serial, "Call of the Savage," the first chapter of which comes to the World Theatre to-day, with Noah Beery, Jr., and Dorothy Short featured. The chief fear expressed by studio officials was that visitors to the historic studio might be bitten, mauled or killed by lions, tigers or other wild animals, or that someone might be engulfed in the death embrace of a giant boa constrictor. On Stage 20 a giant jungle set was constructed, and there lions and tigers prowled and sought and roared while cameras turned and the members of the cast bravely faced actual death day by day in order to put the thrills of this story upon the screen. To make sure no visitors or workers in the studio would accidentally come to harm, a special cage was built just inside the only door-way to the set. If anyone opened the door, he walked right into a big cage where he was safe from harm. Then he was quietly ushered out by an attendant. Meanwhile, in the jungle set excitement ruled every day. Cameramen and their cameras were housed in cages. The director Louis Friedlander, had a platform to stand upon. Every technician and a nearby platform to jump to in case of danger. But petite and tiny Dorothy Short, and young Noah Beery, Jr., the featured players in this sensational film, were actually at the mercy of the wild beasts. They race through the jungle with the animals roaring behind them, and only a trainer with a whip stood by to drive the savage beasts off at the completion of a scene. One stumble and fall on the part of these two young players would probably have meant their death.

"Becky Sharp"

In 1899 Becky Sharp stepped from the pages of William Makepeace Thackeray's famous novel "Vanity Fair" to the American stage. Langdon Mitchell, the brilliant young playwright who wrote the play, named it after the vivacious Becky who, as Thackeray's book had, a half century before, thrown London's literary and social inner circles into a turmoil such as few fictional characters have ever roused. Minnie Madden Fliske, then at her height of her great career, played the title role. It became her best known characterisation. In thirty years she revived the play five times and made more than eleven hundred personal appearances as Becky. "Becky Sharp" has been seen on both the silent and talking screen. The adaptations however were not from the Mitchell play, which is admittedly the only successful adaptation of the novel ever written for the stage. Now at the Star Theatre. The film comes to the world again, this time on the screen at the Queen's Theatre—the talking screen and more—the full-colour screen. She has been selected to usher in a new era in motion picture making. Born in the halls of literature, Becky Sharp comes again with the warmth that colour will add to her colourful personality and the vital fire that the artistry of Miriam Hopkins, stepping into the shoes of Mrs. Fliske, has breathed into her greatest role. Ruben Mamoulian produced this Pioneer Picture screen drama for RKO-Radio release.

"Here Comes The Navy"

"Here Comes The Navy", Warner Brothers' smashing drama of jockeys afloat, ashore and in the air showing at the Oriental Theatre to-morrow, Monday and Tuesday, starring James Cagney and Pat O'Brien in the leading roles. Based on Ben Mattock's exciting story which combines romance, rollicking comedy, rapid fire action and breath-taking thrills, the picture is said to be one of the most tremendous productions ever put out by Warner Brothers. For the first time in pictures, the whole gigantic Pacific fleet is seen, weighing anchor and steaming out of its harbour for the Atlantic Coast. Besides a large and capable cast of Warner Brothers players, three thousand girls take active part in the picture. While the picture is largely melodramatic thrill, there is plenty of hilarious comedy supplied by the principals, Cagney and O'Brien, and Frank McHugh, Dorothy Tree and Mynde Eburne.

"Cardinal Richelieu"

Even though George Arliss portrays the title role of "Cardinal Richelieu" in the Darryl Zanuck production for 20th Century Pictures, at the King's Theatre, the star is still baffled by the man he impersonates. Was Armand de Plessis whose fame as Cardinal Richelieu is written down in flaming letters a politician cloaked in the robes of ecclesiasticism, or was he primarily a man of the church whose political involvements were incidental? In novels, biographies and plays various writers have pictured Richelieu as both hero and rogue, according to their interpretation of this red-robed genius who was the power behind the throne of Louis XIII of France. George Arliss personally scanned at least one hundred of these books in preparation for his portrayal of "Cardinal Richelieu". The result of his researches was a conclusion to let the film public form its own conclusions to the real character of the prelate. He says:—"Cardinal Richelieu is shown in this picture in relation to the dramatic events by which he rose to greatness. The evidence is presented; the public can decide for itself its opinion of the man. That, I believe, is the fairest way to present a man around whom so much controversy has been raised". "Cardinal Richelieu" was directed by Rowland V. Lee, for release through United Artists, with supporting cast includes Maureen O'Sullivan, Edward Arnold, Francis Lister, Douglas Dumbrille, Cesare Romero, Violet Kemble Cooper, Kathryn Alexander and Hallie Hobbes.

"Red Hot Tires"

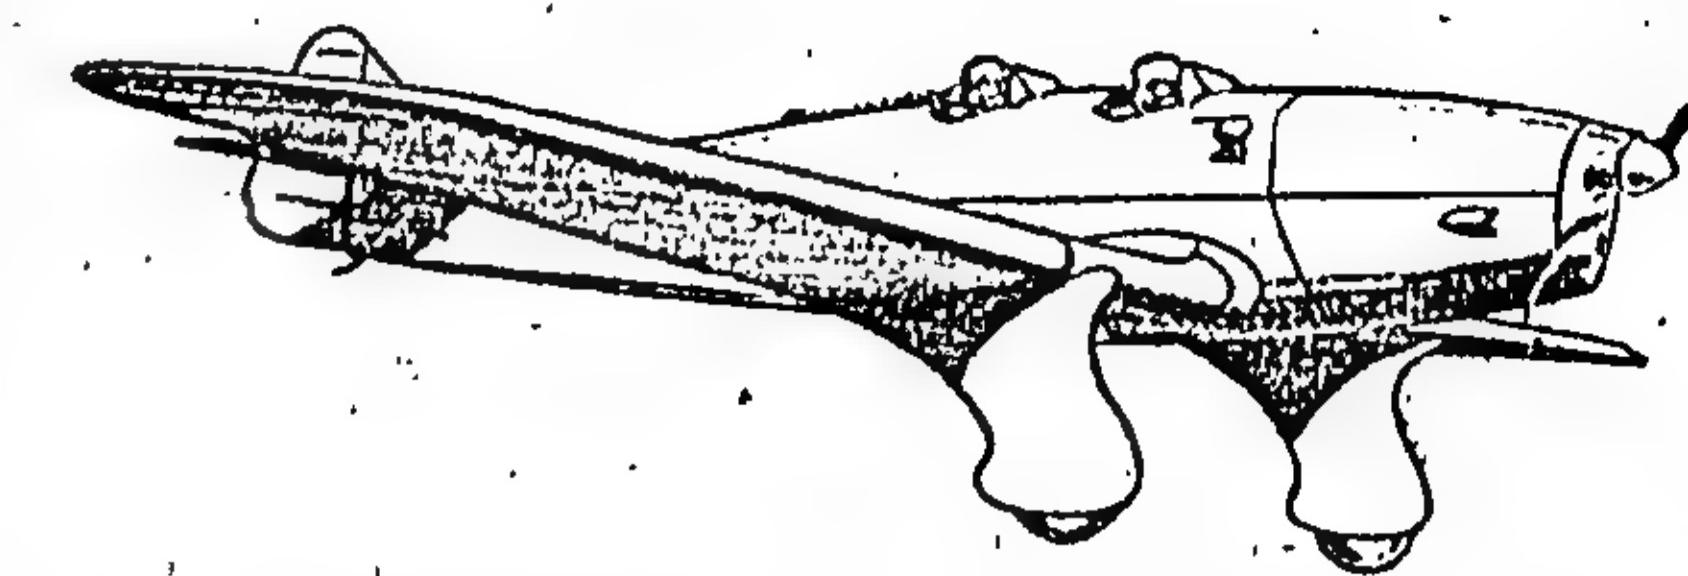

In addition to unfolding a real hot romance, the new First National production, "Red Hot Tires," comes to the screen at the Queen's Theatre on an early date, depicts some of the most thrilling automobile racing scenes ever shown on the screen. Daredevil stunts performed specifically for the picture by nationally famous racers, and in which six members of the cast participated caused even the most blasé motion picture fan to gasp in amazement. The picture is fast in action, with one melodramatic thrill following another to the smashing climax in which the hero wins a spectacular race by a hair with his sweetheart riding with him in his machine. In addition to the race track thrills there is a sensational court trial in which the hero is convicted of wrecking the car and killing a rival driver who is also the rival for the love of a beautiful girl, a jail break and man hunt for the escaped prisoner, Lyle Talbot, as a crack auto racing driver, has one of his best roles in his career. Mary Astor, in the leading female role, that of a designer of racing cars and a follower of the tracks, gives a sterling performance as the girl for whose love two daredevil racers literally battle to death.

"Friday the 13th"

Victor Saville, an "ace" director for Gaumont-British is responsible for the direction of the latest Gainsborough picture, "Friday the 13th," now at the Star Theatre. The film

THE DORADO

ONE-DAY FLIGHT FROM PENANG

The Imperial Airways liner Dorado arrived in Hongkong again yesterday on the second of the four service flights trips which are following the two survey flights.

Again Captain Armstrong and his crew completed the trip within one day instead of the scheduled day and a half.

This time the journey from Penang took an hour longer due entirely to bad weather. The plane was to have left Penang as arranged on Thursday, which is the day on which the main route liners arrive both from London and Australia.

Last week Capt. Armstrong was delayed by the late arrival of the London plane and this week the delay was due to the heavy monsoon rains holding up the servicing at Penang Aerodrome.

There was intermittent rain when the Dorado left Penang at 8 a.m. yesterday. She arrived at Saigon at 7.13 a.m. and after refuelling departed at 7.55 a.m.

The rain compelled a slight deviation in the route.

Captain Armstrong this time landed at Hue instead of Tourane, but both places are approximately the same distance from Hongkong. He arrived at Hue at 11.15 a.m. and departed at 11.40 a.m. arriving at Kai Tak at 5.38 p.m. The trip was again without incident the machine behaving splendidly.

Captain Armstrong returns to Penang on Tuesday and will be back in Hongkong on Friday.

THE HONGKONG SINGERS

RECITAL ARRANGED FOR ARMISTICE DAY

The programme of their Armistice Day recital of Elgar's "For the Fallen" and Brahms' "Requiem" indicates that the objects of the Hongkong Singers are the making of music for its own sake, for the pleasure of others, and incidentally the helping of deserving causes.

It goes on to explain that the proceeds of this recital are to be devoted to St. Dunstan's and the Hongkong Society for the Protection of Children. It is no secret that the choice of these two bodies was that of Lady Southorn, whom the Hongkong Singers are honoured to have as their President.

The work of St. Dunstan's in Regents Park on behalf of the men blinded in the Great War is too well known to require elaboration here, but paradoxically the work of the Hongkong Society for the Protection of Children in our very midst may not be so familiar, and a few facts may not be out of place.

The Society assists with food or medicine no less than 7,000 poor children each month. It is seldom that its inspectors find cases of cruelty—dire poverty is what they meet with at every turn. Frequently it is found that whole families are struggling to exist on less than $2 per head per month!

As with Barnardo's Homes in England, the basic principle of

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

SUBJECT: EVERLASTING PUNISHMENT

This will be the lesson Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, to-morrow, November 3, 1935.

The Golden Text will be: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." (Psalms 51:10).

Among others, the following citations from the Bible will be said: "And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with him and his disciples. And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why eateth your master with publicans and sinners? But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick. But go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." (Matthew 9: 13-13).

The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Christian Science commands man to master the propensities,—to hold hatred in abeyance with kindness, to conquer lust with chastity, revenge with charity, and to overcome deceit with honesty. Choke these errors in their early stages, if you would not cherish an army of conspirators against health, happiness and success. The abiding consciousness of wrong doing tends to destroy the ability to do right. The pains of sinful sense are less harmful than its pleasures." Page 405.

ROOF REPAIRS?

RITO pays for itself over and over again. In half the usual time and at a quarter the cost your man can make a permanent all-weatherproof job of those slate, tiles, gutters, downspouts, skylights, etc., which should be repaired now, while the weather is good.

RITO is a plastic roof repair compound which grips inseparably into all constructional materials and sets tough like rubber. To-day on thousands of roofs, including the Law Courts and the G.P.O., London, it is defying vibration, storms and atmospheric acids, thus proving its claim to be more permanent than the very roof it repairs.

NEWS IN PHOTOGRAPHS

THE BATTLE FOR ADOWA

First Photographs of Actual Fighting On The Ethiopian Fronts.

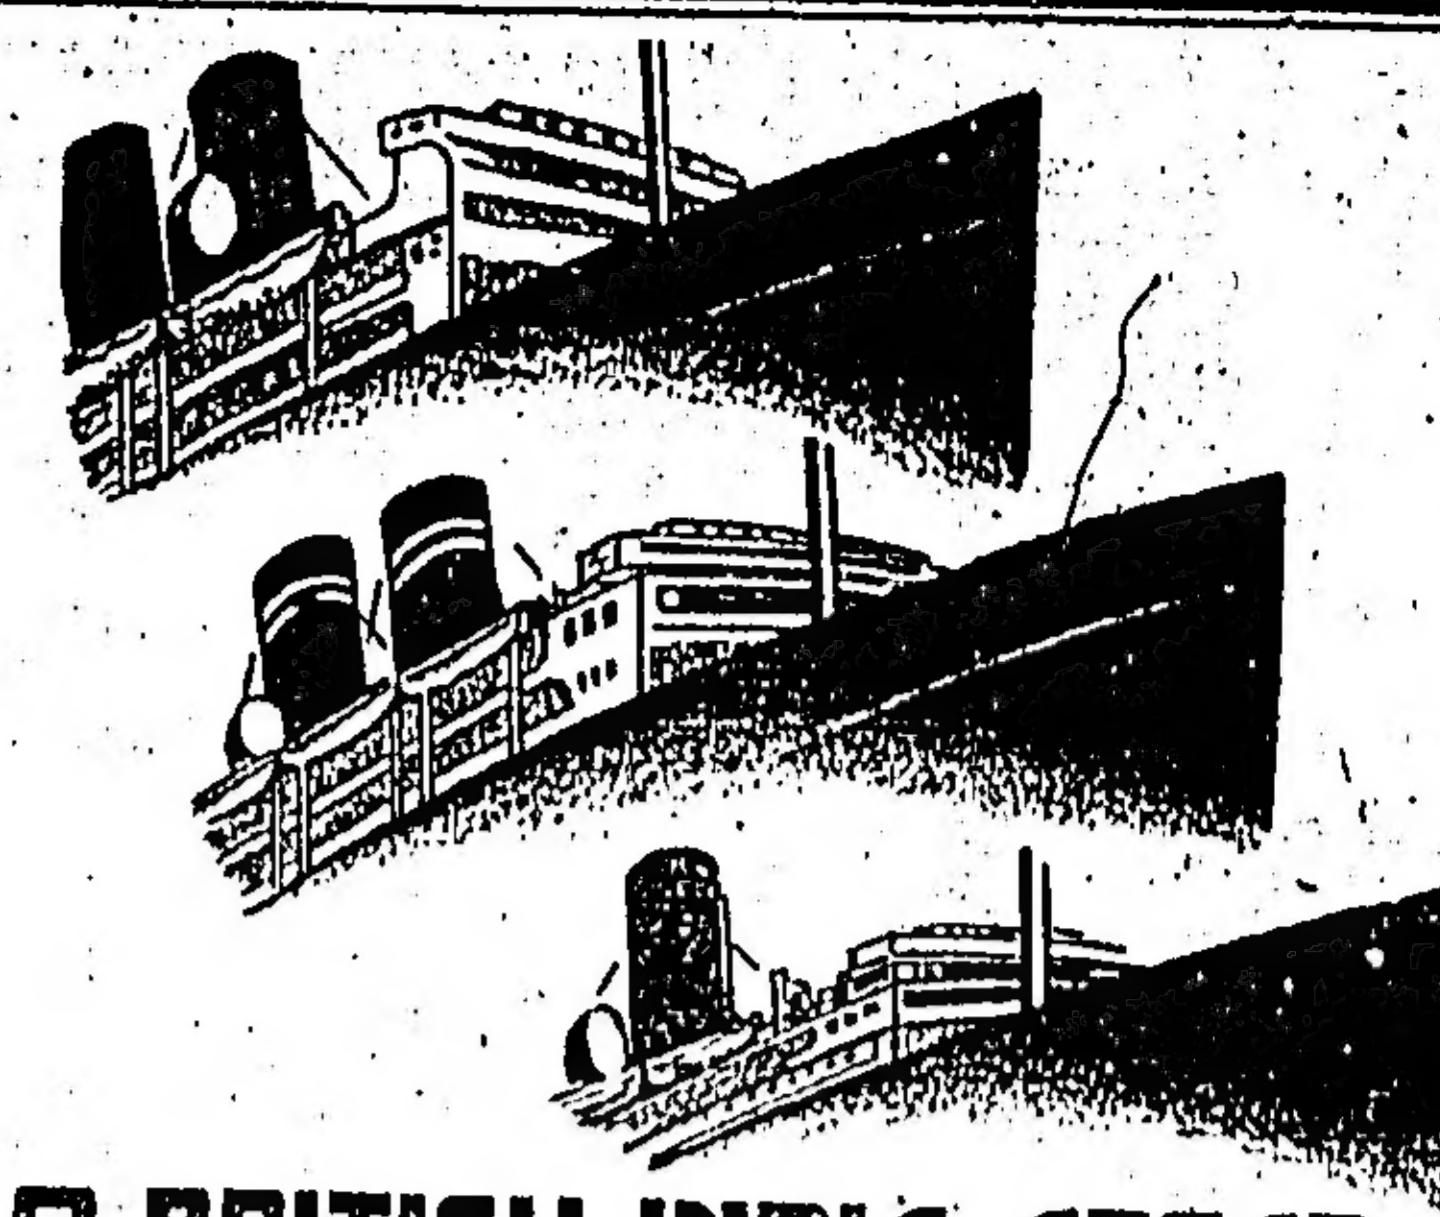

Italian cavalry charging on Adowa under the smoke of battle, and forging through a river. They suddenly appeared at a canter, and, gathering speed, fell on the retreating Abyssinians, turning the retreat into a rout. Never before has a photograph of such a dramatic cavalry charge in actual warfare been published. Photo was sent from Adowa to Rome by air, and then telegraphed to London.

These are the first photographs of the actual battle for Adowa and fighting on the southern front. Taken by a War Correspondent at the front, they were rushed by air to Rome, and thence telegraphed to London—where they were published in the "Daily Mail" 48 hours after they were taken—repetition of the enterprise which has often enabled the well-known newspaper to scoop its rivals.

This photograph shows Abyssinian cavalry moving up to the Ogaden front through country typical of the region. It is in this sector that large-scale operations are now under way.

DUTCH AIRLINE TO OPERATE SOON

(Special to "Telegraph")

New York, Nov. 1.
It is reported that the Dutch Air Line is shortly commencing a regular air mail passenger service to Manila, linking the Dutch East Indies air lines with the Pan-American trans-Pacific service.

Pan-American officials state that the Dutch interests have not approached the United States, but the proposal would be considered on its merits.

The officials added that the United States hoped that extensive air mail routes would be developed as an adjunct to the trans-Pacific service, but American efforts for the present would be confined solely to completing the line into China proper.—United Press.

HUSBAND AND WIFE

SEPARATION LAW
AMENDMENT

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to make better provision in this Colony for the granting by magistrates of separation and maintenance orders.

The object of this Ordinance is to incorporate in the local law relating to husband and wife the amendments effected in England by the Married Women (Maintenance) Act, 1920, the Summary Jurisdiction (Separation and Maintenance) Act, 1925, and section 5 of the Licensing Act, 1902, relating to habitual drunkards.

The definition of "married woman" in Section 2 of this Ordinance makes it clear that the Ordinance is intended to apply primarily to the parties to a marriage as defined in the Divorce Ordinance, 1932, but the provisions of section 2 of Ordinance No. 10 of 1905 extending the operation of that Ordinance to Chinese and other customary marriages "duly celebrated according to the personal law and religion of the parties" have been retained for the benefit of the large non-European population of this Colony.

The racial distinction between Asiatics and others contained in section 2 of Ordinance No. 10 of 1905 has however been abolished, except as regards a Chinese first (or kit, fat) marriage, or a marriage between a Chinese widower and his second (or lu fung) spouse, where it is necessary to define the two recognised forms of Chinese customary marriage.

BETTER CHINESE
PHYSIQUE

GENERAL'S MISSION
TO THE WEST

London, Nov. 1.
General Chang Chih-chiang, head of the Physical Culture Bureau in Nanking, was entertained in London to-day by a conference of English missionary societies.

General Chang is visiting Europe and America to study physical training systems. He said he aimed at combining the best of the Western and Oriental systems for the physical development of the Chinese.

According to General Chang, Chinese physique is poor compared with that of Westerners, and China needs strong bodies and strong minds in the tasks confronting her.—Reuter.

AIR SURVEYS

AID IN REVISION OF MAPS

London, Nov. 1.
Aerial photography is being used extensively as an aid in the revision of maps by local authorities in areas where development has been so rapid that a ground survey cannot keep pace with it.

A belt of land completely surrounding London has recently been photographed by an air survey company. It comprises the whole of Middlesex and all the newly-developed part of Surrey, several districts in Essex, and areas confronting them.—British Wireless.

DOLLAR OFFICE CLOSURE

San Francisco, Nov. 1.
A Dollar Line spokesman stated that the closing of the Tokyo branch was unimportant. It had been a one-man office for some time, and this man would merely be transferred to Yokohama.—United Press.

"QUEEN MARY"
SAILING

FIRST TRIP NEXT
MAY

London, Nov. 1.
The announcement by the Cunard White Star of May 27 next as the first sailing date of the new liner Queen Mary indicates that satisfactory progress is being made in fitting out the giant ship.

Some four thousand skilled workmen are busy on board, apart from many thousands engaged throughout the country in the manufacture of equipment. Two large swimming pools and an enclosed promenade deck 1,250 feet long are ready for completion. The twenty-five public rooms, decorative schemes for which are already being worked out, will be unusually large. The first-class dining room will hold nine hundred passengers and the roof is thirty feet high.

Elaborate radio and telephonic arrangements are included in the equipment. Microphone telephones will be fitted in first-class cabins, which will enable passengers to put through radio-telephone calls to any part of the world.

A world's record for launching a lifeboat was established in a recent test of one of the Queen Mary's sixteen boats, which was lowered from the davits and down to the water in 31½ seconds.—British Wireless.

HEAVY SENTENCE

MARRIED WOMAN KIDNAPS
A BEGGAR-BOY

Sentence of 12 months' hard labour was passed upon Chu Sze, aged 26, married woman, when she appeared on remand before Mr. E. I. Wyne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon, on a charge of kidnapping a seven-year-old boy, Wong Yu-wing, on October 20.

The boy's parents, Wong Lang (father) and Chan Yuk-king, appeared as the complainants.

Detective-Sergeant Ellis appeared for the prosecution, and in outlining the case stated that about 7.30 a.m. on October 20 the boy, who was a beggar, went to the Shui Wah Knitting Factory, at No. 316 Laichikok Road, to wait for the remains of a meal. There was another beggar woman sitting about three or four doors away who saw defendant take the boy in her arms and walk off.

The beggar woman took no notice of the incident until she went to collect food and saw the boy's rice can. She then thought she had better make sure whether or not the woman who took the boy away was a relative or friend of the lad, so she went to his home and told his parents of what had taken place and a report was made at the Mongkok Police Station and a description of the woman was circulated.

Woman Seen With Boy

About 12.50 p.m. the boy's parents were going round to the houses of their friends and relatives to see if anybody knew what had happened to their child, when they came to the junction of Hong Lok Street and Argyle Street and saw defendant with the boy.

The boy pointed to defendant, and his father grabbed at the woman, but he had something wrong with his foot and he missed her and she ran away. An alarm was raised and the woman was arrested by a district watchman.

The beggar woman, Lam Yau, and other witnesses gave evidence.

Defendant stuck to the story that she gave on her first appearance, that she saw the boy in the street and only took him home to give him some food. She was taking him back when she was arrested.

On sentencing defendant his worship stated that there was no doubt in his mind that she had intended to kidnap the lad.

COAL MARKETING
SCHEME

OWNERS GIVE AN UNDERTAKING

London, Nov. 1.
The Central Council of Colliery owners has informed the Secretary for Mines that a definite undertaking will be given, on its own behalf and on behalf of sixteen out of seventeen district organisations, that arrangements for complete and effective control of the sale of coal will be made in each district, with co-operation between the districts through the Central Council.

The reply of the remaining district is expected to-morrow.—British Wireless.

The fourteen years old racehorse, Poncher, which was specially chosen for and ridden by the Duke of Gloucester when he visited the Wagga Experiment Farm on the way to Canberra, F.C.T., has been found dead in a paddock, having been struck by lightning. Poncher won about 40 races in the Wagga district, and retired in 1930, since when he had been used as a hack.

PEIPING'S REPLY TO JAPAN'S NOTE

Peiping, Nov. 2.

It is learned that the Peiping Municipal Government has replied to the warning issued by Mr. Kawagoe, Japanese Consul-General, regarding anti-Japanese activities in North China.

The reply professes ignorance regarding the Blueshirts, but promises to investigate and suppress any underground anti-Japanese elements.

It is authoritatively stated that the Peiping and Tientsin Garrison Headquarters have organised a special corps to ferret out Blueshirt Party agents.—United Press.

associated to find a basis of negotiation, and which have so far failed to produce useful or hopeful results.

Meanwhile the financial, legal and economic sub-committees have been studying the reservations made by several Governments in connection with the Co-ordination Committee's recommendation for prohibition of imports from Italy by League Powers. It is hoped that it may be possible to-morrow for the Co-ordination Committee, which will act on the report of the Committee of Eighteen, to appoint a date for the putting of this recommendation into execution by League States in concert. November 15 is freely mentioned as the likely date.

It is suggested that the Co-ordination Committee might meet again some time after the date to consider how far the measures already undertaken were proving effective in shortening the war in East Africa, and whether any further measures should be recommended to the Governments of the Covenant-enforcing States.—British Wireless.

CONGRESSIONAL

WARMLY WELCOMED
IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, Nov. 2.
A host of Chinese, American and Filipino officials greeted Vice-President Garner and party of Congressmen and pressmen when they arrived in Shanghai this morning aboard the President Grant, en route to Manila for the Commonwealth inauguration ceremonies.

A marine band played the National Anthem as Mr. Garner stepped ashore. The party is having lunch with the Mayor, Mr. Wu To-chien, taking tea with Dr. H. H. Kung, Minister of Finance, and dining with Mr. Nelson Johnson, U.S. Ambassador, to-day, and will then embark for Manila via Hongkong.—Reuter.

LOCAL DOLLAR UNCHANGED

The official rate of the Hongkong dollar was unchanged at 18. 9½d. on opening this morning.

Business was done shortly after the opening at the official rate, this being the highest recorded, but later the rate dropped to as low as 18. 8½d.

The market locally is demoralised, on buying pressure from Shanghai.

AMERICAN SENTENCED

Hankow, Nov. 2.
